ACADEMIC CONTENT

Overall objective The course introduces students to key theoretical and conceptual discussions about development and globalisation. It provides a historical basis for understanding the contemporary global situation via the study of global social, political and economic processes since the 19th century and their subsequent development up to today. The second part of the course focuses on contemporary academic debates about global and development challenges such as climate change, intersectionality, class, gender and race, inequality, conflict, populism, human rights and global flows.

"The course is structured into three blocks

The first block engages historical dimensions and conceptual debates of globalisation and development.

Detailed description of content The second and third blocks introduce key contemporary challenges to the field of globalisation and development through the introduction and application of theories while grounding it in historical and conceptual debates. (Block headings could be: 'Power and inequality' and 'Post-development and global futures').

After the first two parts students hand in the written product and receives feedback.

ASSESSMENT

Overall learning outcomes

- Students learn new theories and perspective on development and globalisation that equip them to address global challenges. They acquire knowledge about the historical background to today's academic and political debates about global distributions of wealth and power, global flows of media, culture, ideas and knowledge, environmental change and conflict.
- Through lectures and class discussion, students learn to analyse politics, economics, and society globally and to situate development historically. Their assignment and oral exam must demonstrate an overview of the main theories and approaches, and their ability to apply these theories in relation to current global problems.

Individual written portfolio and oral exam

Form of examination The character limit of the portfolio is 12,000-14,400 characters, including spaces. Examples of written products are exercise responses, talking points for presentations, written feedback, reflections, written assignments. The preparation of the products may be subject to time limits.

The character limits include the cover, table of contents, bibliography, figures and other illustrations, but exclude any appendices.

Time allowed for exam including time used for assessment: 30 minutes. The assessment is an overall assessment of the written product(s) and the subsequent oral examination.

Permitted support and preparation materials for the oral exam: All.

Assessment: 7-point grading scale

Moderation: External examiner

Form of Re-examination

Samme som ordinær eksamen / same form as ordinary exam

Type of examination in special cases

Written paper:

1) Hand in a written product during the course relating to lectures and readings of the first part of the course. The paper must engage (define and discuss) key theories and concepts of development and globalisation.

Examination and assessment criteria

Oral examination:

2) Apply knowledge of historical background of development and globalisation to today's academic and political debates, while implementing theories and concepts from the course and own exam paper.

3) Demonstrate overview of key concepts and theories and ability to apply these to the analysis of current global challenges.
